Observation Skills

[peer observation- improving teaching quality]

What is peer observation in teaching?

- When a teacher is observed by a fellow teacher (rather than a senior- supervisor, principle, ministry officer etc).
- The observer is expected to give some feedback

Peer observation of teaching:

(another way of looking at it)

Peer observation of teaching is where teaching staff choose a colleague to attend and observe one of their teaching sessions.

At the end of the session they discuss what went well, where improvements could be made, and create an action plan of required changes.

What are the purposes of classroom lesson observation?

- Not for evaluation but (through many cycles of refinement) for self improvement, and for learning together (CPD)
- (obligation to improve teaching and continuing learning)
- Non-judgmental
- Teachers take notes and uses qualitative approach

Benefits of Peer Observation in teaching...

Objectives / benefits / advantages

- Both observer and observed may improve teaching ability
- New ideas and perspectives about teaching from colleagues
- Teachers might take feedback better if it comes from other teachers
- Boosting a teacher's confidence
- Both parties develop deeper awareness of the teaching process

Improve teaching quality

- Disseminate best practices in teaching
- Provide opportunities for reflective practice

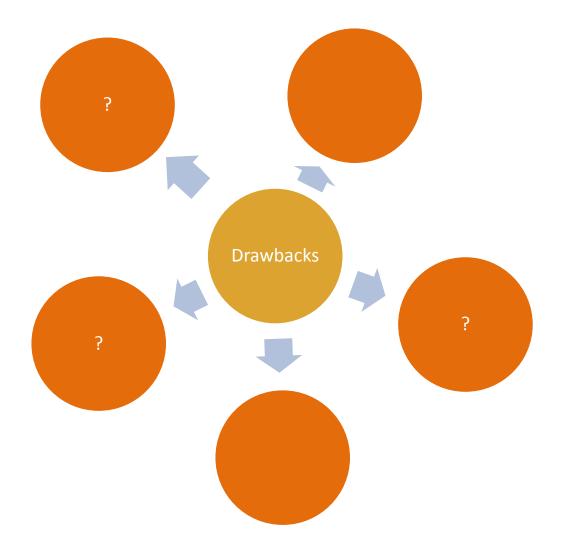

Support continuing professional development

(summary) Objectives / benefits / advantages

- Improve teaching quality
- Disseminate best practices in teaching
- Provide opportunities for reflective practice
- Support continuing professional development
- Trust and rapport among colleagues

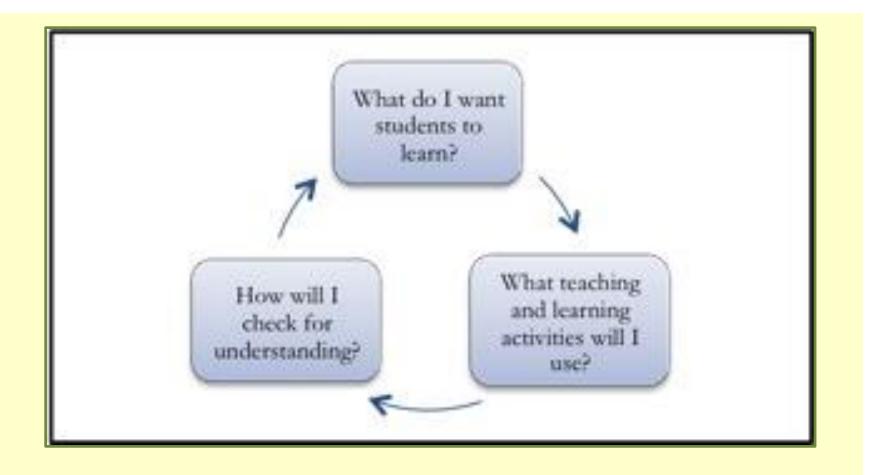

Drawbacks of Peer Observation in teaching...

Drawbacks / disadvantages

- Feeling distress (being observed)
- Time constraint
- Possible bias relating to the observer's own beliefs about teaching
- Observers might think they know better than the observed teacher
- The feedback might not be useful
- Students may think that something is wrong with their teacher

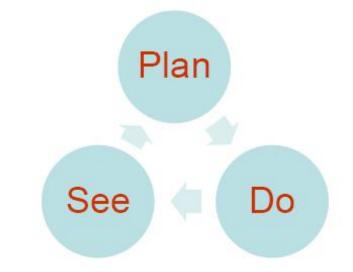

An usual teaching scenario

Cycles of refinement

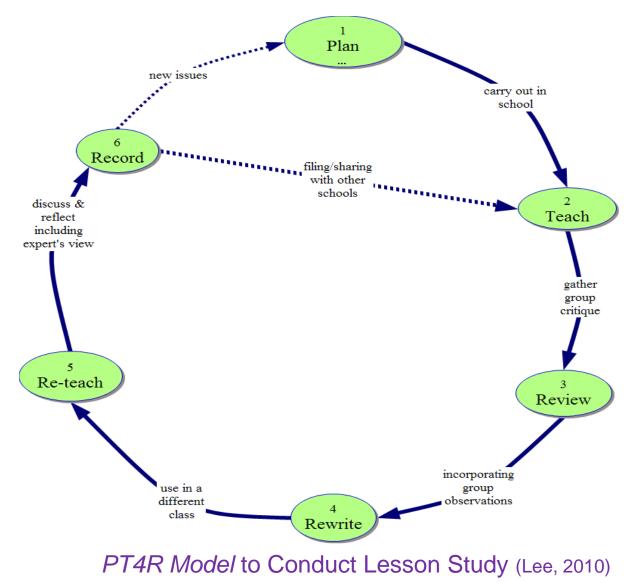

- Many cycles of refinement in teaching
- · Plan-Do-See Cycle
- Commitment & obligation to improve lesson and continuing learning
- Flexible as a framework

Plan (Preparations), Do (Observations) and See (Discussion and Reflection) activities (lesson study cycle) with other teachers.

The Lesson Study Cycle

What do you observe in a lesson?

What do you observe in a lesson?

- Focus on teacher's teaching?
 - -Lesson flow & Lesson content
 - -Pedagogy
 - -Classroom management + bansho
 - -Interaction with students
 - -Questioning techniques

- Focus on students' learning/thinking/behaviour/responses?
- Focus on teaching materials used?

But in Lesson Study we ...

• Focus on teacher's teaching?

• Focus on teaching materials used?

Peer Observation Guidelines

- An effective observation requires an observation instrument designed to accurately and reliably portray the classroom environment
- Schedule this conference within a week of the observation.
- The observer should arrive at least 10 minutes before class. "Walking into class late is poor practice and inconsiderate"
- The observer can be briefly introduced to the students, with an equally brief explanation of why the observer is present. Then move on
- The observer are not to ask questions or participate in activities during class; such behaviour can detract from and invalidate the observations
- Review results from the completed Classroom Observation Instruments
- Begin the conference with a positive comment (i.e., "I really enjoyed your class...").
- Provide honest, constructive feedback

What are (other) possible observation tools?

- Video recording
- Audio recording
- Photographs
- Note taking
 - Observation field notes
 - Observation forms/scales
- Student written works/worksheets
- Classroom sitting plan
- Lesson note (using ICT for note taking) http://lessonnote.com/

Dos and Don'ts for observation

Dos

- Position yourself so that you can see both teacher and students
- Move in the classroom to get information (Move freely when students are working individually or in groups, but move to the side or back of the room during whole-class discussion)
- Take notes throughout the lesson
- Visual records are recommended videos, photos

Dos and Don'ts for observation

Don'ts

- Do not block students' view
- Do not engage in side conversations
- Do not interfere with the natural flow of a lesson
- Do not help/disturb demonstrator of the lesson
- Do not help/disturb students learning (Occasional interaction is permissible if done discreetly and with the purpose of understanding student thinking)

What to record?

- Take notes on individual student responses, using the students' name
- Record how students begin their work and approach the tasks
- Record student-student interactions and studentteacher interactions
- Document common students' misunderstandings and how and when their understanding changed
- Indicate how individual students constructed their understanding through activities and discussions
- Document the variety of solutions that individual student use to solve problems including their errors

Case students

- Identify some particular pupils for observers to focus their attention on:
 - Underperforming pupils
 - Average
 - High performing
- They might reflect a range of different groups of learners in class, including pupils who are making good, average or below average progress in an aspect to be covered by the lesson

Phases of observation

1_(a) The Pre-observation discussion (a)</sub>

- Explain the observers' roles and responsibilities.
- Explain the school policy and related issues.
- Agree a date, time and location.
- Explain confidentiality issues and discuss documentation.
- Discuss the format of the session that you have agreed to observe.
- Identify any particular strategies or techniques on which the observee would like feedback.
- Clarify what students will be told regarding the observation session.

1 (b) Pre-observation discussion/conference (b)

Reviewing the observee's teaching plan including:

- Time & Level
- Lesson plan
- Lesson objectives & goal
- Strategies/Methodolog y, & Assessment.

2 (a) During Observation / While observing (a)

- Arrive in good time
- Decide where to sit
- Ensure students are informed at the outset
- Observe (don't join in)
- Record staff & student non-verbal communication
- Ensure balance between positive & negative observations

2 (b) While-observing (b)

- Organization of the lesson
- Time management
- Students' performance on tasks
- Time on task
- Teacher's questions, &
- students' responses
- students' behaviour
- Teacher's explanation
- Teacher's action
- Teacher's communication skills
- Students' performance during pair/group-work activities
- Classroom interaction.
- Use of textbook

3 (a) Post Observation (a)

- (Wherever possible) Debrief directly after the session: provide a verbal feedback
- Ask the observee how they felt the session went
- Give verbal feedback on the main points

(positive & negative)

 Agree format for formal feedback (i.e. written, audio etc.)

Note: It is a session of data presentation & analysis where the "how to" dimension is questioned & justified for the sake of understanding, reinforcing and suggesting

3 (b) Post Observation (b)....

- Prepare formal feedback within 2 weeks of the observation activity (audio or written)
- Where applicable, give feedback in private
- Ensure feedback is developmental
- Avoid information overload
- Identify & elaborate on strengths & weaknesses
- Ensure you are unambiguous about areas for development
- Ask observee to consider action plan with timescales
